Professional Services Library of Consultants

1. Please include the following questions and answers, as part of the above mentioned RFQ:
 - Q1. Is it acceptable to submit qualifications for a Prime Contractor and Subcontractors that would demonstrate expertise in portions of multiple categories? We understand that within the package each category needs to be a complete submission that can be evaluated.
 - A1. Yes
 - Q2. Is it the intention that the Prime Contractor include key subcontractor information that would likely be necessary depending upon the needs of the specific contract?
 - A2. Yes
 - Q3. The RFQ notes that projects over $30,000 are required to be bid. Does this mean that multiple proposals will be sought from the "on call" list?
 - A3. For projects with a total cost for the professional services which are over $30,000 it is possible the Request for Proposals process will be the solicitation method used.
 - Q4. If submitting on multiple categories where different companies are covering different categories. Will this be looked at as a team and selected as such or is it possible for individual companies covering the individual categories to be selected separate from the team?
 - A4. It is possible for individual companies to be selected for categories separate from the team if the submission is complete for the individual company. If the submission is only complete as a team then the team will be considered and not the individual company.
 - Q5. If submitting as part of a team, can we also submit for individual categories?
 - A5. Yes with a complete responsive proposal.
